

9822 REASONABLE ACCOMMODATION

9822.1 Any Public Housing Resident with a disability may apply to the AYBL Program. If AYBL applicant cannot meet the initial eligibility requirements due a disability, DCHA may consider the following factors, among others, as a reasonable accommodation to qualify for the program:

- (a) source of income for the entire household;
- (b) minimum income requirements; or
- (c) bedroom size requirements.

9822.2 After considering the above factors, DCHA in its sole discretion will determine if the AYBL Applicant Family can meet the AYBL Final Eligibility Requirements for admission to the program and continued occupancy.

Source: Notice of Final Rulemaking published at 58 DCR 2460, 2478 (March 18, 2011); as amended by Notice of Final Rulemaking published at 58 DCR 4346, 4348 (May 20, 2011).